Presents: A Bird walk with local experts

Day: Saturday May 11th
Start Time: 8:30AM
Place: Harrison Hills Park
Starting Point: Overlook Pavilion Watts Meadow

We are happy to announce that two very accomplished local birders have again offered to lead a spring migratory bird outing at Harrison Hills Park.

Steve Gosser, is an accomplished nature photographer, and Mary Ann Thomas, writes for the Tribune Review/Valley News Dispatch. Both have spent countless hours birding in Harrison Hills Park.

Steve Gosser has become an expert of capturing seldom seen events in the birding world. If you ever tried to catch an Osprey in flight with a fish catch in its talons, you know how nearly impossible that is. But Steve has done it numerous times. He has photographically recorded over 300 different bird species to date. These are a few of his pictures from previous walks.

Mary Ann often writes about local bird happenings like the Bald Eagles in Hays and Harmar and the Peregrine Falcons under the Tarentum Bridge. Mary Ann has been birding for several decades and has seen most of our local species. She has written about local wildlife for a number of years for the Valley News Dispatch and other publications.

This special bird outing will give you a chance to improve your bird ID skills and perhaps learn how to take pictures like these captured by Steve Gosser.

Reservations are required and limited to the first 20 responders.
